DEATH TOOK THE STAKES

ONCE HE WAS RESPECTED

The Infatuation of the Gaming Table Proved Sadly Fatal to His Young Ambition and His Early Hopss.

special Correspondence of the Standard. LIVINGSTON, Nov. 14 .- "Doll" Cope, the Livingston gambler, who last Sunday either took or was administered an overdose of morphine passed in his checks at 8 o'clock Wednesday morning. After being brought from the influence of the deadly drug be was rational for several hours, but gradually relapsed into a state of delirium and finally had a violent attack of tremens. During his rational period he stated that while in an intoxicated condition he went to the office of Van Dyke, a traveling dentist and mor-phine flend, who produced a gun and gave him two shots. Had Cope died while under the influence of the drug the dentist would now be in the toils of the law, but as it is the probabilities are that he will not be arrested. The physicians state that Cope recovered from the effects of the morphine and died from heart failure, superinduced by a too free indulgence in alcoholic stimulants, and here the matter will do doubt rest, although it is intimated that when the dead man's brother arrives he will cause dead man's brother arrives he will cause a legal investigation to be made.

The dead man's ruling passion was strong even in death, and in his wild delirium he imagined himself in a game of poker at the very moment of his final dissolution. A few minutes before the summons came the attendant entered the death chamber with a cup of coffee and asked the patient to drink. In reply Cope said: "Wait a minute till I cash in." He then went through all the mo-He then went through all the motions of cashing in, a lot of imaginary checks, counted the money over which he thought he had received, and, with the ark, "Well, that's a pretty good winoffee, and then dropped back dead. In truth he had cashed in. It was a ame where death held the winning hand. The cards had been stacked, but in the dissorded condition of his brain poor Cope knew not that his life was the stakes.

Cope, though a gambler, had many noble qualities of head and heart. Reared by noble parents and in childhood surrounded by all that was good, he was olished in manner, which even 10 years of dissipation had not worn away. His parents are eminently respected people and well-to-do residents of Gallatin, Mo. GALLATIN TEACHERS.

They Are Holding a Very Successful Meeting.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. BOZEMAN, Nov. 13,-The teachers Gallatin county closed their schools on Tuesday evening for the rest of the week to attend the Gallatin county normal institute held at this place, which had its opening session in the High school building this morning at 9 o'clock.

The institute will be conducted on the normal plan, with instructors, as instituted in this county by Superintendent Kay at the session of 1893. The following being the instructors for this session:

Hon E. A. Steere. U. S. History
Superintendent Public Instruction.

Prof. W. E. Harmon . Arithmetic
City Superintendent of Schools, Bozeman.
Mrs. F. E. M. Ishail . Drawing
Art Teacher in College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts.

Prof. L. Foster . Botany

Prof. L. Foster Botanist in College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts.

H. Warren Fractions

diss M. E. Shoemaker Compulsory Education
Principal Bozeman High School

The institute this year will be held three days, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, the programme prepared being one which will prove very interesting and especially instructive.
There were 55 teachers present at to-day's session, which opened the institute with the following programme:

Grammar—Primary.......Miss Anna Hillix Theory of Penmanship.....Prof. H. G. Pheips NOON RECESS.

instead of his paper, upon the invitation of President Reed of the Agricultural colof President Reed of the Agricultural college, the institute adjourned until Thursday morning and visited the agricultural experimental station. The paper by Mrs. Marshall on drawing was the first to come before the institute on this subject, but drawing will be taken up in the city schools the coming year and taught upon certain days in each of the district schools of the county. Professor Phelps in his talk upon penmanship dropped the old theory of all practice and dealt with writing from a psychological standpoint, making a clear and instructive talk, this being one of the branches of Professor Phelps' work as principal of the business department of the college.

"Methods in Geography," which was the opening paper of the afternoon session, given by Principal Johnston of the East Side school, was one of the most interesting of the day, being treated from a Normal standards.

ing of the day, being treated from a Normal standpoint and taking the primary branches only. The day closed with an able paper on decimals, given in the pleasant manner so natural to Professor Har-

The evening sessions will be held in the opera house Thursday and Friday, there being no evening session Wednesday owing to a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Tracy on Mendenhall street, given by Miss M. E. Shoemaker, principal of the High school.

The evening was very pleasantly spent with vocal and instrumental music, recis, and a palatte the honors were carried off by Prof. J. W. Johnston and Miss Porterfield, while the booby prizes were awarded to O. L. Bishop and Miss Ella Johnston.

This session of the institute, not down upon the programmes, was for the pur-pose of the teachers meeting each other in a social way, and especially in honor of the newly-elected county superintendent, A. J. Walroth. The retiring superintendent, John M. Kay, and the resignation of Miss Shoemaker as principal of the High school here to accept the position of superintendent of schools of Yellowstone ounty, to which position she was alected on Nov. 6.

After the serving of dainty refreshments the reception broke up at an early hour, and this most enjoyable session of the institute will always be remembered.

MONTANA GRAY WOLVES.

They Kill Many Young Cattle and Are Dangerous to Man.

The gray wolves are on the rampage in the northern part of Gallatin county. Montana, says the Portland Oregonian. Already they have killed hundreds of calves and in some instances have been known to attack steers and cows that became separated from the herd. They do far more damage than the sneaking coyote, for the large wolves are much stronger, are more fleet, and when hungry they are courageous and take desperate chances. The gray wolf is the flercest of his species and many a man in the great woods of the east and north has been killed by them.

A few days ago a farmer in the northern part of the county shut two large-sized colts in a corral while he took his team to a field. When he came back after th colts a few hours later he found both had been killed by the wolves.

Another stockman, while riding over the hills, came across two large steers that had been carrying on an unequal fight with wolves. The two steers were surrounded by a number of the big gray creatures and several coyotes, which had been running the cattle about. The steers were badly bitten and they were nearly exhausted with the unequal struggle. At the appearance of the stockman the wolves and coyotes slunk away. When the winter finally sets in and it becomes a difficult matter for them to get a calf or a sheep the stockman fear that these woives will become desperate. They will then go in bands and will undoubtedly attack almost anything that might furnish them a meal. GLIMPSES OF AMERICA.

DO YOU CONCUR. You may not. There are some who do not, but perionce to sustain concurrence of approval in the remark that goods well bought are half so.d. and frequent replenishing of stock prevents staleness in goods. Now staleness is an enemy to freshness, and goods no matter what their quality when new and trash become inferior and are poor buying at most any price. Hetween two articles, one of which belon is in a higher class, but is stale, the other of standard quality but fresh, it is much better from every point of consideration to select these goods in preference to those of maimed quality. This is part cularly true in the grocery line; consequently the store which succeeds in most frequently turning its stock and deals in well and favorably known brands of goods, and soils them at rates that are mutually fair to the interest of the buyer and seller, is where goods are well bought.
